people of this country.

The chronic and incurable preacher is nothing if not infallible. When he essays to deal with political problems and social conditions as they exist, he is about as awkward as a bull in a China-shop, and as impervious to reason as an alligator to a shower of rain. To be stupid and dull and rant in an air of infallibility, and trust-me-to-know-it-all, is the stock style of the preacher politician. The editor of the Friend is never troubled with the necessity of advancing any reasons for a startling statement, but merely announces in a flat-footed fashion, that "in spite of schooling, preaching and training" for 70 years the Hawaiians are not intelligent enough "to be con-sulted as to their political destiny." The editor of the Friend must be a dreadfully humorless man in not seeing the comic and grotesque side of this statement; or else the cause of annexation, to which he stands irredeemably pledged, demands lots of confession of sin and self-abnegation.

Are we really to understand that the net results of 70 years' teaching by the missionaries of the A. B. C. F. mission is such a failure as stated by the Friend. That the natives are to-day steeped in "sensual vice, superstition, and persistent ignorance, away below the average of nations, say the United States for instance? Surely not. The statement has its root in disappointment and chagrin, for the morality of the Hawaiians will compare favorably with Anglo-Saxon nations, and most favorably with the United States, where not more than a tenth of the population is of Auglo-Saxon stock, and where "Christian manners" or "Western civilization"-as you please-have taken to the lynching by "white men" of three innocent negroes, for Sept. 30 ....Oct. 11 ....Oct. 21 the alleged crime of an absent brother, which, had it occurred anywhere out of Dahomey or where it did, would have send a thrill of hor-

The statement of the Friend is a humiliating confession of failure not without a tinge of fraud, for if the falling away into paganism be true as alleged, it has been carefully concealed from the missionary subscrib-ing public of America, and to say that it has only occurred now in this third generation of missionary en-No Freight will be received after terprise, would be "too thin." search of our criminal statistics would be expected to corroborate Consignees must be at the landings to receive their Freight, as we will not hold ourselves responsible after such Freight has been landed. the assertion, but would establish of these islands was, that the whole population, chiefs and people, were converted to Christianity; and that the churches here could be selfsustaining and would need no further reinforcements of white preachers from abroad. Possibly some of the pastors of that day thought that the field was small enough for their own exploitation. However, constitutional government by a limited monarchy was settled on, and fixed up by the missionaries, and if any iconoclast had stood up in a church and ventured the opinion that the missionary was traveling too fast on the road to "self-government," and suggested that they should hatch up an affair on the Bolte-Emmeluth pattern, he would have been brained by a heave of the pulpit Bible. No, it was urged that every one not too old to learn could, in that day, read and write not a few in two lan-guages. Thousands of brilliant young men capable of leading their people in the pulpit, forum or senate had passed through the high schools. "Is there anything new under the and therefore the time was ripe, and You will ask yourself that question and the answer is thus it was, that as far back as 1838 the Congress of the United States, GO TO M. GOLDBERG'S by special enactment, declared that Hawaii was capable of self-govern

The probability is that the alleged "untutored aboriginal" is to-day better tutored than his quondam guide would care to admit, and that teacher and taught have "sized' each other up, and the Hawaiian has, possibly, measured the politico-Sereno Bishop applied theology, by the "Sermon on the Mount," and found it a hopeless misfit, and concluded that the Rev. Sereno is ex perimenting on the wrong kind of heathen, and trying to fit an angular aborigine into a purely circular doctrine. The "untutored aborigi-nal" of the Reverend Fathers of
